

SEEDS OF SOLIDARITY

LUXURY GOODS CATALOGUE

Commissioned and donated by Lina Hadid

“Some moments ask us to pause and consider the weight of our choices. This is one of them.

What is happening in Palestine is not only the loss of life, but an attempt to erase a people and their history. Homes, schools, museums, and sacred places have been destroyed. In response, Palestinians hold on to what cannot be taken by force. Archivists preserve old photographs of Jerusalem. Poets recite the words of Mahmoud Darwish amid the ruins. Families pass down recipes like maqluba, and women continue stitching tatreez, each pattern carrying the memory of a village.

These acts may seem small, but together they are powerful. They say: we are still here. To stand with the women and children of Palestine is to stand for life, culture, and the right to exist. When chances to act with meaning are rare, this is a moment to choose compassion—and make it count. Free Palestine.”

Dr Lina Hadid is a American-Palestinian international attorney with professional experience working for Fortune 500 companies specialising in corporate strategy, legal affairs and stakeholder relations. In addition to her professional experience, she possesses in-depth knowledge and experience working on advocacy issues affecting the human rights of Palestinians. Her broad range of experience culminated in co-founding the Palestine Lobby, a think tank, to convene like-minded individuals around the rights of Palestinians and develop innovative and creative lobbying strategies.

Using her extensive network, she has successfully used digital and traditional media to integrate the rights of Palestinians into discussions and industries such as fashion and luxury goods as well as art, both of which are global multibillion-dollar industries.

She has collaborated and lent her support and voice to projects such as the cookbook Craving Palestine and the documentary Walled Off. Previously, she co-hosted the Free Palestine Pod, which covered stories, expert opinions and in-depth analysis and news. She works between Paris and Madrid. She holds a Bachelor of Arts in Public Affairs, a Doctorate in Law, and a Post-Doctorate in Negotiations.
